THE MEROVINGIAN ANCESTRY OF THE 2008 PRESIDENTIAL CANDIDATES

“And there appeared another wonder in heaven; and behold a great red dragon, having seven heads and ten horns, and seven crowns upon his heads... And the great dragon was cast out, that old serpent, called the Devil, and Satan... And the beast which I saw was like unto a leopard, and his feet were as the feet of a bear, and his mouth as the mouth of a lion: and the dragon gave him his power, and his seat, and great authority... And they worshipped the dragon which gave power unto the beast: and they worshipped the beast, saying, Who is like unto the beast?” (Rev. 12:3,9; 13:1-2,4)

INTRODUCTION

With the presidential election proceeding as planned, the United States is as polarized as ever and, once again, many conservative Christians are under the false impression that it matters who is elected in November. This report is an effort to demonstrate in practical terms that, at this point, it makes no difference who wins the presidential election. Fears about a Bush-Clinton dynasty which could rule the United States for 28 years, or more, become even more unsettling with the discovery that all of the presidential candidates belong to the same dynasty. It is called the Merovingian dynasty and it claims to have a long history, being nearly as ancient as the human race. The good news is that God destroyed this evil dynasty once before, in the Great Flood (Gen. 7), and He is about to do it again (Rev. 19).

The term “Merovingian” is said to derive from Merovee who was King of the Franks from 447-458 A.D. According to the legend, as explained in Bloodline of the Holy Grail, Merovee had two fathers, King Clodion and a strange “beast of the sea.”

“Despite the carefully listed genealogies of his time, the heritage of Meroveus was strangely obscured in the monastic annals. Although the rightful son of Clodion, he was nonetheless said by the historian Priscus to have been sired by an arcane sea creature, the *Bistea Neptunis...

“The Sicambrian Franks, from whose female line the Merovingians emerged were associated with Grecian Arcadia before migrating to the Rhineland. As we have seen, they called themselves the Newmage — ‘People of the New Covenant’, just as the Essenes of Qumran had once been known. It was the Arcadian legacy that was responsible for the mysterious sea beast — the *Bistea Neptunis — as symbolically defined in the Merovingian ancestry. The relevant sea-lord was King Pallas, a god of old Arcadia... The immortal sea-lord was said to be ‘ever-incarnate in a dynasty of ancient

kings’ whose symbol was a fish - as was the traditional symbol of Jesus.” (Laurence Gardner, Bloodline of the Holy Grail, pp. 166, 175)

Despite recent false claims that the Merovingian race was sired by Jesus Christ and Mary Magdalene, and is therefore “divine,” the legend of King Merovee conceals the TRUE origins of the Merovingian race in remote antiquity. “Meroveus” derives from the French words “mer” meaning “sea” and “vere” meaning “werewolf” or “dragon.” The book of Revelation informs us that the dragon is “the Devil, and Satan,” hence the esoteric allusion to the Merovingians’ progenitor, King Merovee, a king of France sired by a mysterious “beast of the sea,” is a claim that the Merovingian dynasty has literal Satanic descent:

“And there was war in heaven: Michael and his angels fought against the dragon; and the dragon fought and his angels... And the great dragon was cast out, that old serpent, called the Devil, and Satan, which deceiveth the whole world: he was cast out into the earth, and his angels were cast out with him...

“And I stood upon the sand of the sea, and saw a beast rise up out of the sea... And...the dragon gave him his power, and his seat, and great authority.” (Rev. 12:7,9; 13:1-2)

Bloodline of the Holy Grail, Holy Blood, Holy Grail and The Da Vinci Code were popular books marketed for mass consumption and, as such, were propaganda tools which concealed the true origins of the Merovingian race. The demonic origins and history of the Merovingian Dynasty—also known as the Dragon Dynasty in honor the great red dragon of Revelation 12 and 13—are revealed in less available insider sources such as Gardner’s Realm of the Ring Lords and “Kenneth Grant and the Merovingian Mythos” published by DragonKey Press.

“...The ancient people of the Tuatha De Danann...were the supernatural tribe of the pre-Achaean agricultural goddess Danae of Argos, or perhaps of the Aegean mother-goddess, Danu. But their true name rendered in its older form was Tuadhe d’Anu. As such, they were the people (or tribe) of Anu, the great sky god of the Anunnaki.” (Gardner, Realm of the Ring Lords: The Myths and Magic of the Grail Quest)

“The Nephilim were banished to the center of the earth for disobeying God by mating with the daughters of men and teaching them the ‘forbidden’ arts. In this publication the Nephilim have been identified as the Fathers of the Merovingians...

“...the Merovingian race was sired by a water beast known as the Quinotaur. This Quinotaur took the form of a sea-bull. Crowley’s personal seal was of a sea goat. Grant, writing of Crowley’s Seal of the Beast, says: ‘The beast is the sea-goat or amphibious monster identical with Cthulhu, the Quinotaure or Bull of the Deep.’ Grant writes as a footnote; ‘The waters under the earth; home of the ‘ancestors’ or subconscious atavisms of the race.’ Is this a reference to the race of the Grail?” (“Kenneth Grant and the Merovingian Mythos”)

Merovingian claims of angelic ancestry may seem to be highly sensationalized fiction and too bizarre to be true, but this may not be the case. For these authors correctly state that the demonic origins of such a race is supported in Scripture:

“The Nephilim were banished to the center of the earth for disobeying God by mating with the daughters of men and teaching them the ‘forbidden’ arts. In this publication the Nephilim have been identified as the Fathers of the Merovingians.” (“Kenneth Grant and the Merovingian Mythos”)

“And it came to pass, when men began to multiply on the face of the earth, and daughters were born unto them, That the sons of God saw the daughters of men that they were fair; and they took them wives of all which they chose. And the LORD said, My spirit shall not always strive with man, for that he also is flesh: yet his days shall be an hundred and twenty years. There were giants in the earth in those days; and also after that, when the sons of God came in unto the daughters of men, and they bare children to them, the same became mighty men which were of old, men of renown. And GOD saw that the wickedness of man was great in the earth, and that every imagination of the thoughts of his heart was only evil continually. And it repented the LORD that he had made man on the earth, and it grieved him at his heart. And the LORD said, I will destroy man whom I have created from the face of the earth; both man, and beast, and the creeping thing, and the fowls of the air; for it repenteth me that I have made them. But Noah found grace in the eyes of the LORD.” - Gen. 6:1-7

The Hebrew word nephiyl is properly translated fallen ones and refers to the offspring of fallen angels who mated with human women on Mount Hermon in the land of Canaan. It may be that “after that” in Genesis 6:4 refers to a second invasion of fallen angels after the flood, which would explain why the Israelites found giants (Nephilim) in Canaan upon entry into the Promised Land: “And there we saw the Nephilim, the sons of Anak, who come of the Nephilim; and we were in our own sight as grasshoppers, and so we were in their sight.” (Num. 13:33, Masoretic Text, Hebrew-English JPS 1917 Ed.) The following excerpt from an informative essay on the Nephilim discusses Genesis 6:4:

“Some commentators have speculated that the Nephilim of Numbers 13 belonged to a second eruption of fallen angels, since the earlier Nephilim had been destroyed in the Flood. And they see an allusion to this in Genesis 6:4, where it states that ‘there were Nephilim in the earth in those days; and also after that, when the sons of God came in unto the daughters of men.’ Could it be that the ‘after that’ was a reference to the Nephilim found in Canaan during the Israelite entry into the land? If so, it could explain why the Lord commanded the total extermination of the Canaanites, as He had earlier ordered the near annihilation of the human race.” (“Sons of God, Daughters of Men”)

Sodom and Gomorrah were Canaanite settlements that practiced cult prostitution in conjunction with their fertility rites. Jude 7 suggests that the inhabitants of Sodom and Gomorrah were so depraved that fornication with angels may have been practiced, as Genesis 19 also attests.

“And the angels which kept not their first estate, but left their own habitation, he hath reserved in everlasting chains under darkness unto the judgment of the great day. Even as Sodom and Gomorrah, and the cities about them in like manner, giving themselves over to fornication, and going after strange flesh, are set forth for an example, suffering the vengeance of eternal fire.” - Jude 6-7

“And there came two angels to Sodom at even; and Lot sat in the gate of Sodom: and Lot seeing them rose up to meet them; and he bowed himself with his face toward the ground; And he said, Behold now, my lords, turn in, I pray you, into your servant's house, and tarry all night, and wash your feet, and ye shall rise up early, and go on your ways. And they said, Nay; but we will abide in the street all night. And he pressed upon them greatly; and they turned in unto him, and entered into his house; and he made them a feast, and did bake unleavened bread, and they did eat. But before they lay down, the men of the city, even the men of Sodom, compassed the house round, both old and young, all the people from every quarter: And they called unto Lot, and said unto him, Where are the men which came in to thee this night? bring them out unto us, that we may know them.” (Gen. 19:1-5)

The Canaanite territory of northern Israel was later occupied by the tribe of Dan, whose worship of Baal/Pan involved such fertility rites at Mount Hermon, also called Mount Sion. Merovingians are the offspring of the tribe of Dan which intermarried with the Canaanite Tuatha De Danann, also known as the Dragon Lords of Anu because they were said to be the offspring of the fallen angels (Anunnaki). When God dispersed the northern tribes for their wickedness, the tribe of Dan migrated to Greece, and later to France and the British Isles where they established pagan priesthoods and royal dynasties of the demonic bloodline:

“The Tuatha De Danann (or Dragon Lords of Anu)...[before settling in Ireland (from about 800 B.C.)]...were the...Black Sea princes of Scythia (now Ukraine). Like the original dynastic Pharaohs, they traced their descent from the great Pendragons of Mesopotamia; from them sprang the kingly lines of the Irish Bruithnigh and the Picts of Scotland’s Caledonia. In Wales they founded the Royal House of Gwynedd, while in Cornwall in the southwest of England, they were the sacred gentry known as Pict-Sidhe.

“So, from a single caste of the original Blood Royal - whether known as the Sangréal, the Albi-gens or the Ring Lords - we discover many of the descriptive terms which sit at the very heart of popular folklore. For here, in this one noble race, we have the ‘elves’, ‘fairies’ and ‘pixies’ - not beguiling little folk, but distinguished Kings and Queens of the Dragon succession.” (Gardner, In the Realm of the Ring Lords, Pt. 1)

In ‘The Psalter of Cashel’ it states that: ‘The Tuatha de Danaan’ ruled in Ireland for about two centuries, and were highly skilled in architecture and other arts from their long residence in Greece.’ The Tuatha de Danaan were the descendants of Danaus, the son of Belus, who went with his fifty daughters to Argos, the home of his ancestress Io. In Irish legends the Tuatha de Danaan, who were considered to be demi-gods,...were said to have possessed a... Grail-like vessel... These teachers of wisdom...were the founders of the Druidic priesthood.” (Van Buren, The Sign of the Dove, pp. 141-2)

In Europe and the British Isles, the Dragon lineage intermarried with the royal families and became sovereigns.

“Through the work of Sir Laurence Gardener we discover that Sumaire in the old Irish language means Dragon. He writes: ‘It is also reckoned that the subsequent culture of the region, phonetically called Sumerian (pronounced ‘Shumerian’) was actually

Sidhemurian (Shee-murian).

This case is now considerable since the early Ring Lords of Scythia (the Tuatha De Danaan king tribe) were actually called the ‘Sumaire’.

“During the days of the Biblical Great Exodus, a group separated from Moses and went to the North. This group was the Tribe of Dann. Millions went and settled in the European and Scandinavian areas. From there they spread out to other parts of the world...conquering the countries, spreading their Anunnaki seed and replacing the conquered people’s traditions with their own serpent culture.”

(“The Tribe of Dann and the Lost Tribe of Israel”)

After the Merovingian dynasty was deposed by the Roman Church in 800 AD, their demonic bloodline was preserved by the “Imperial and Royal Dragon Court” which conspired to regain control of the Holy Roman Empire through infiltration of Church and State. Their insignia was the dragon in the form of a circle and a red cross—the Rosy Cross of the Prieuré de Sion, the Knights Templar and the Rosicrucians.

“When the Imperial and Royal Dragon Court was reconstituted by King Sigismund in 1408 as the Societas Draconis, it was based upon an ancient bloodline tradition which Sigismund assumed that he had inherited from his presumed Egyptian and Scythian ancestors through the Pictish, Dragon Princess Maelasanu of Northumbria and the Ancient and Original Angevin Royal House of Vere of Anjou, the Imperial Dukes of Angiers. This line had descended through the Tuatha de Danaan (the Dragon Kings of Anu) on the one hand, and the Egyptian Dragon Dynasty of Sobek on the other. The latter strain included the bloodline of the Davidic House of Judah who married into the descent of the Merovingian Kings of the Franks...

“In 1408 (when Britain was in her Plantagenet era), the Dragon Court was formally reconstituted as a sovereign body at a time of wars and general political turmoil... The founding document...stated that members of the Court might wear the insignia of a dragon incurved into a circle, with a red cross—the very emblem of the original Rosicrucis which had identified the Grail succession from before 3000 B.C.” (Genesis of the Grail Kings)

The Merovingian dynasty still maintains its legitimacy and will one day openly assert the divine right of their nobility to rule the world as an angelic race of demi-gods, whose ancestors were the fallen angels.

“The all-important element of the Divine Right is that it comes from God, or ‘the gods’, alternately. And who were these gods? Authors such as Zecharia Sitchin, Sir Laurence Gardner and Nicholas de Vere are authoritatively convinced that kingship was created by an advanced race of beings called the Annunaki, also called the Nephilim in the Old Testament. These were the ones who created the human race and interbred with a portion of it to create the kingly caste which until this day has still maintained control over the Earth. These celestial creatures have been variously identified with Dragons, Elves, Fairies, Gnomes, Leprechauns, Sprites, Nymphs, Pixies, Angels, Demons, Devils, Witches, Giants, Vampires, Werewolves, and just about every mythical being you can imagine. Some, like Gardner and Sitchin, claim that they come from another planet. Others, like de Vere, say that they're multi-dimensional, or that they're from the Hollow Earth.” (“The Biological Basis of Elitism and Divine Right Rule”)

The return of the Nephilim to spawn another hybrid race—the union of demons and human beings—may soon come to pass, an event the Lord Jesus Christ may have had in mind when He spoke of the period that would immediately precede His Second Coming: “But as the days of Noe were, so shall also the coming of the Son of man be. For as in the days that were before the flood they were eating and drinking, marrying and giving in marriage, until the day that Noe entered into the ark, And knew not until the flood came, and took them all away; so shall also the coming of the Son of man be.” - Matt. 24:37-38

“...Dr. Carl Jung believed, that these UFO sightings are a product of our unconscious veiling of an ancient human experience. Enough said. This ‘bringing to earth’ of the Sangraal by UFO’s is the modern day equivalent of the Nephilim, the Outer Ones, or the Elohim earthing ‘knowledge’ and siring a new race of ‘kingly’ beings for this world. Kingly i.e., the Merovingians. The Merovingian blood is the blood of kings, the kings or gods from ancient Sumeria and beyond.” (“Kenneth Grant and the Merovingian Mythos”)

If the Nephilim, aka the Anunnaki, are planning to return during the Tribulation period to “sire a new race of ‘kingly’ beings for this world,” is it possible that these antediluvian gods, the demons who originally sired the Merovingian race, are the mysterious “beast that rises out of the sea” in Revelation 13?

“And I stood upon the sand of the sea, and saw a beast rise up out of the sea, having seven heads and ten horns, and upon his horns ten crowns, and upon his heads the name of blasphemy. And the beast which I saw was like unto a leopard, and his feet were as the feet of a bear, and his mouth as the mouth of a lion: and the dragon gave him his power, and his seat, and great authority. And I saw one of his heads as it were wounded to death; and his deadly wound was healed: and all the world wondered after the beast. And they worshipped the dragon which gave power unto the beast: and they worshipped the beast, saying, Who is like unto the beast? who is able to make war with him?” (Rev. 13:1-4)

The report which follows consists of portions of mainstream news articles that reveal the aristocratic ancestry and financial connections of the major presidential candidates—to Merovingian Scottish, English and French nobility and to Merovingian Jewish and Arab financiers (i.e., Rothschild, Bronfman, Dubai). Since the mainstream media presents these power elites in a generally favorable light, and withholds essential information about them, we have supplemented the sparse data in these largely disinformational news reports with facts from Merovingian and other sources—facts that are never reported in the mainstream news media.

According to our research, if the published genealogies of the major presidential candidates are accurate, John McCain and Barack Obama appear to hold higher rank in the Dragon dynasty than Hillary Clinton, the former being descendants of several Merovingian Kings of England and Scotland. Based on the sequence of end-time events in Bible prophecy, we believe that John McCain has been chosen by the Prieuré de Sion to become the next U.S. president—a War President who will impose martial law on the United States and launch World War III during the first half of the Tribulation Period. Mitt Romney, whose Mormon ancestry is also Merovingian, has been included in the profiles in the event he is selected by McCain as Vice President. To show that presidential succession is restricted to Blood Royals in the Dragon lineage, we have included profiles documenting the Merovingian ancestry of President George Bush and Vice Pres. Richard Cheney. In the candidate profiles below, comments in GREEN PRINT are those of Watch Unto Prayer.

Our projection for the next president is contingent on the current U.S. President George W. Bush serving only two terms, a limitation that could be removed by passage of legislation pending in Congress to repeal the 22nd Amendment to the Constitution. (See: H.J.RES.24.) However, this legislation would require ratification by the legislatures of three-fourths of the States within seven years after passage, making it unlikely that the Constitution will be amended soon. Another contingency is the looming merger of the United States with Canada and Mexico to form the North American Union—a union that will end the sovereignty of the U.S. and nullify the Constitution.

To help our readers to understand the agenda and major players in the Merovingian conspiracy we have included throughout the report links to relevant articles on the Watch Unto Prayer website. ## JOHN McCAIN

JUST THE FACTS ABOUT MCCAIN

Arizona Central
Sept. 18, 2006

"Ancestry: McCain family origins are Scotch-Irish. His great-aunt was a descendant of Robert the Bruce, an early Scottish king." / AN UNDERSTATEMENT TO SAY THE LEAST... SEE BELOW.

Birth date: August 29, 1936. McCain was born in the Panama Canal Zone at the Coco Solo air base hospital. If elected as president in 2008, he would be 3 years older than Ronald Reagan, the oldest elected president to date.

Spouse: Cindy Hensley (May 1980 - present); Carol Shepp (Jul. 1965 - Feb. 1980; divorced).

Children: The McCains have 7 children. In his first marriage, he and Carol had a daughter (Sydney) and adopted two sons (Doug and Andy). He has 3 children by Cindy (Meghan, Jack and James). He and Cindy adopted their youngest daughter (Bridget) after discovering her in a Bangladeshi orphanage run by Mother Teresa. He has 4 grandchildren.

Grandfather: Rear Admiral John S. McCain was "a gaunt, hawk-faced man known as Slew by his fellow officers and, affectionately, as Popeye by the sailors who served under him. McCain Sr. played the horses, drank bourbon and water, and rolled his own cigarettes with one hand. He witnessed the Japanese surrender aboard the USS Missouri in Tokyo Bay on Sept. 2, 1945. He died on Sept. 6, 1945 and buried in Arlington National Cemetery." (Source: "Faith of My Fathers" by John McCain.)

Father: John S. McCain, Jr., rose to the rank of four-star admiral. In his final assignment, he commanded all U.S. forces in the Pacific during the Vietnam War. The admiral died Mar. 24, 1981.

Ancestry: McCain family origins are Scotch-Irish. His great-aunt was a descendant of Robert the Bruce, an early Scottish king. John Young, an early McCain ancestor, served on Gen. George Washington's staff. After the family moved to Mississippi, a number of McCain's ancestors fought in the Civil War on the side of the Confederacy. In 1848, the McCain family (William Alexander McCain) owned slaves in Carroll County, MS.

Of Politics and Genealogy: US Edition

This article is based on several online genealogies of the three candidates, the most comprehensive of which is <http://www.wargs.com/political>

McCain's antecedents are not as glamorous and diverse as Obama's and Clinton's. In fact, John McCain's genealogy (for the time being) has only been traced to reveal two interesting people: one, to King William I "the Lion", King of Scotland, who is McCain's direct ancestor, and Laura Bush, wife of President George W. Bush, who happens to be a sixth cousin of Senator John McCain. (Click here for McCain's pedigree chart). / WHAT ABOUT ROBERT THE BRUCE??? SEE BELOW.

In a world where political victories and losses are not as easily predicted as surveys are paraded and believed to be, looking at a candidate's ancestry sometimes tells us who among the candidates is the strongest.

It is interesting to note that Obama and McCain share a common descent from King William of Scotland, and that Obama and Clinton are relatives by affinity because Obama's cousin, Brad Pitt, married Angelina Jolie, the daughter of Jon Voight, Hillary's cousin. / "ANGELINA PITT"—CF. "ANGEL OF THE BOTTOMLESS PIT" (REV. 9:11)

The fight between Hillary and Obama will be long and hard, considering that both have strong royal bloodlines and, while Obama have many US Presidential relatives, Clinton's two Canadian Prime Minister cousins Trudeau and Chretien are two of the modern times' most influential. And, between them are [sic] a plethora of singers and actors and actresses, each of whom have made an impact to the world.

Whoever wins in the Democratic race will ultimately face McCain who, while not having as many famous relatives as Obama and Clinton, certainly has the right relationship to incumbent George W. Bush, as well as also a royal descent from William of Scotland. It would seem that this November would be a face-off between Obama and McCain, both of whom are related to the Bushes and both sharing a common descent from King William of Scotland.

- ROBERT THE BRUCE WAS FAR MORE THAN AN "EARLY SCOTTISH KING." HE WAS A HIGH BORN MEROVINGIAN:
  - PRIEST-KING OF THE CELTIC CHURCH
  - LIBERATOR OF SCOTLAND FROM ENGLAND
  - SOVEREIGN GRAND MASTER OF THE ORDER OF THE KNIGHTS TEMPLAR
  - FOUNDER OF THE ORDER OF THE ROSY CROSS

“When Hugues de Payens and the Knights Templar had first returned from Jerusalem in 1128, they brought with them the secrets of the Master Mason, Hiram Abiff, the builder of Solomon's Temple. However, their Jerusalem excavations had also led to other important discoveries, including some ancient documentation which enabled them to challenge certain Roman Church doctrine and New Testament interpretations, particularly in relation to the Crucifixion and the Resurrection. For this reason, the Knights Templar refused to bear the upright Latin Cross, and wore an eight-pointed, centered cross as their emblem...

"In 1307...Under the auspices of Robert the Bruce and the excommunicated clergy, the Order was restructured into a Church, with a hierarchy quite independent of Rome. The Templar Church had abbots, priests, and even bishops... The Knights began to train the army of Robert the Bruce in the hit-and-run tactics of warfare established in the Crusades... The Roman Church may have betrayed the Templars, but in Scotland they found something far more trustworthy and tangible: a sacred royal house and a Priest-King of the Celtic Church succession...

"...The King of Scots was installed as the hereditary Sovereign Grand Master, and from that time, whichever descending King held that office, he was to be known as 'Saint Germain.' A new Order was then formed, called the Elder Brothers of the Rosy Cross, and several of the Rosy Cross Knights then sailed to France for a meeting with Pope John XXII at Avignon...

"Many historians have presumed therefore that the Knights Templars must have disbanded in Scotland, but this was not the case; it was simply that Bruce had contrived the secret Order to become even more secretive. Indeed, the Order of the Knights of the Rosy Cross had been established by Bruce for Templars who had been valiant at Bannockburn, and this was a very successful cover." (Prince Michael Stewart, The Forgotten Monarchy of Scotland, pp. 60-1, 63-65)

Nevertheless, Henry left three sons and three daughters, whereby Scotland's succession was assured. His eldest son became Malcolm IV (1153-65), whose reign was the most uninspired in Scottish history...and, although he had an illegitimate son, he refused to marry. Seizing the opportunity with the ineffectual young king, Henry II Plantagenet demanded that Malcolm should pass over his Cumbrian and Northumbrian rights to the Crown of England. Malcolm IV, who was then only 13, duly complied without argument, and then went to Toulouse, to spend most of his remaining years in France...

Cindy Hensley McCain

Cindy Lou Hensley McCain (born Cindy Lou Hensley in 1954) is the wife of United States Senator and 2000 and 2008 presidential candidate John McCain of Arizona. She is chair of Hensley & Co., one of the largest Anheuser-Busch distributors in the nation.

Hensley met John McCain in 1979 at a military reception in Hawaii. He was the U.S. Navy liaison officer to the United States Senate, eighteen years her senior, and in a somewhat troubled marriage to his first wife, Carol. McCain and Hensley quickly began a relationship; he divorced Carol in April 1980, and he and Cindy were married on May 17, 1980 in Phoenix. Her father's business and political contacts helped gain her husband a foothold into Arizona politics; she campaigned with her husband door-to-door during his successful first bid for U.S. Congress in 1982, with her wealth from an expired trust from her parents providing significant loans to the campaign.

BEHIND THE SCENES WITH MICHAEL COLLINS PIPER

SELF-STYLED REPUBLICAN “reformer” John McCain is right now positioned as one of the top figures in the race for the GOP presidential nomination. But one thing about McCain that the mass media chooses not to report is his family connection to the organized crime-connected interests that have run the state of Arizona (through both major political parties) since at least the 1940s.

To understand McCain—in particular his devotion to the interests of Israel—it is necessary to recognize the little-known fact that the powerful Bronfman family empire, based on its Seagram’s liquor fortune and its controlling influence over the Time-Warner media conglomerate, has been the primary behind-the-scenes force dominating Arizona politics.

While the Bronfman family first came to power in Montreal in the 1920s under Sam Bronfman, a foremost partner of U.S.-based organized crime chieftain Meyer Lansky whose so-called “Mafia” henchmen peddled Bronfman liquor in the United States during Prohibition, the current head of the family, Edgar Bronfman, spent many years as president of the powerful World Jewish Congress.

The Bronfmans, along with the Rothschilds of Europe, the Oppenheims of South Africa, and Armand Hammer of the United States—all patrons of Israel and the global Zionist network—constituted what has been dubbed the “Billionaire Gang of Four.” But the Bronfman family has emerged as the virtual royal family of American Zionism, and their tentacles reach far and wide throughout the United States through a vast array of holdings little known to the public...

...McCain's home state of Arizona has long been under Bronfman control. While most Americans perceive Arizona as a paradise of cowboys, cacti and wide-open spaces and a conservative stronghold independent of the corruption and intrigue found in the big cities like New York, Miami, Chicago and Los Angeles, Arizona ranks right up alongside the great crime capitals. That status can be traced directly to the influence of the Bronfmans.

The Bronfmans are the "godfathers" behind the political career of John McCain.

In 1976 a crusading Phoenix reporter, Don Bolles, was murdered by a car bomb after writing a series of stories exposing the organized crime connections of a wide-ranging number of well-known figures in Arizona, including one Jim Hensley. Five years later "Honest John" McCain arrived in Arizona as the new husband of Hensley's daughter, Cindy.

"From the moment McCain landed in Phoenix," according to Charles Lewis of the Center for Public Integrity, "the Hensleys were key sponsors of his political career." But the people behind the Hensley fortune are even more controversial.

McCain's late father-in-law was the owner of the biggest Anheuser-Busch beer distributorship in Arizona—one of the largest beer distributors in the nation. But the mainstream media has had nothing to say about the origins of the Hensley fortune that financed McCain's rise to power. The Hensley fortune is a regional offshoot of the big-time bootlegging and rackets empire of the Bronfman dynasty...

While John McCain himself cannot be held personally responsible for the sins of his father-in-law, the fact is that this "reformer" owes his political and financial fortunes to the good graces of the biggest names in organized crime. Today, the Las Vegas gambling industry is among McCain's primary financial benefactors. This brief overview is just the tip of the iceberg but it does say much about McCain and the political milieu that spawned him, particularly in light of McCain's front-line position as one of Israel's leading congressional water-carriers.

Doing Israel's bidding is a McCain family tradition. Following Israel's 1967 attack on the USS Liberty, resulting in the murder of 34 Americans, McCain's father, Adm. John McCain, was one of the key players inside the U.S. Navy helping cover up the deliberate nature of Israel's savage attack. "Like father, like son" clearly means something when it comes to the McCains.

LONDON -- Sen. John McCain took a break from meetings with high-level government officials in Europe and the Middle East this afternoon for a good, old-fashioned $1,000 to $2,300 presidential fundraiser in the heart of downtown London.

McCain spent more than two hours in the stately, 18th-century stone palace that once served as a home to the Spencers, of Diana fame. Located at the end of a private cul-de-sac, the house now serves part time as an exclusive locale for such functions. (Its website calls it "an elegant backdrop for civil weddings, wedding receptions, musical evenings, lectures and press presentations.")

Guests arrived in -- what else -- drizzling, cold rain under umbrellas for the luncheon event, which featured fish on a bed of spinach, duck salad and an ice cream flambe with raspberry sauce, according to one of the guests.

"It was great food," said Cathy Manganelli, of New York, who was there with her husband, Ray Manganelli, and their 16-year-old son, Chris.

Aides refused to talk about the fundraiser, or to say how much money was raised, and McCain dashed through the rain away from reporters after emerging. One guest said there were about 100 people at the luncheon. If they all gave the maximum, the event would have raised about $230,000 for the campaign. / ONLY $230,000 RAISED AT A ROTHSCHILD EVENT???

Manganelli said McCain opened the fundraiser by talking about the souring U.S. economy, but the discussion soon shifted to foreign policy, especially in the Middle East, where McCain spent much of the last week. He discussed Iraq, Iran, North Korea and global warming, according to Ray Manganelli.

The Arizona senator has said repeatedly that his trip abroad this week is not a campaign event. Rather, he insists, it is a fact-finding mission typical of those he has long conducted as a senior member of the Armed Services Committee. The trip is being paid for by the U.S. government. / WE DO NOT THINK THIS WAS A FACT-FINDING MISSION; RATHER MCCAIN RECEIVED FUNDING FROM THE ROTHSCHILDS IN ENGLAND AND ORDERS FROM HEADQUARTERS—THE PRIEURÉ DE SION, AKA B'NAI B'RITH, IN PARIS.

Aides said they and the senator met with ethics committee officials before the trip and were assured that McCain could hold a presidential fundraiser as long as Senate staffers did not attend and no government resources were used to conduct it.

Senate spokeswoman Melissa Shuffield, who sat at a nearby hotel while the fundraiser took place, said McCain was paying for his hotel room in London and the cost of the flight to London in order to comply with the ethics rules.

As noted earlier by Post reporter Matthew Mosk, an invitation sent out by the campaign says the fundraiser was organized "by kind permission of Lord Rothschild OM GBE and the Hon. Nathaniel Rothschild." Attire was listed as "lounge suits." Ray Manganelli, who works in private equity, said he contacted the McCain campaign when he realized his family would be vacationing in London today.

"The reason I brought my son today was because this is a person who I really believe you can look up to," Manganelli said. "It comes down to the character issue. When you look at your son in the eye at night and you talk about that, I think, ultimately, our politicians should be role models in the way that they conduct their own lives."

Democrats in London hastily organized a "counter-rally" at London's Westminster Arms, saying that McCain "does not represent the views of the majority of Americans." But Manganelli said he thinks McCain will win by appealing to Republicans like himself and to others who are drawn to his war record and integrity.

"It doesn't matter which side of the aisle," Manganelli said. "What unites us is integrity and courage."

John McCain is on a world tour, and after flunking Middle East Politics 101 on the Jordan leg of his trip, he's now on his way to London, where his campaign will hold a fundraising event. (For American citizens only as foreigners can't contribute.) Proper attire for the luncheon affair is "lounge wear," according to the Washington Post, which also reported that the event will be held at Spencer House on St. James's Place, "by kind permission" of Lord Rothschild and Nathaniel Rothschild.

The latter "may become the richest Rothschild of them all," according to a profile last year in the New York Times. The story said Nathaniel Rothschild was "close to becoming a billionaire through a web of private equity investments" in Eastern Europe, and that he was "a principal adviser to *Oleg Deripaska, one of the richest oligarchs in Russia." Indeed, the Daily Mail has said that Rothschild's wealth had "been accrued in his role as the adviser to" Deripaska.

Russia's Seven Richest Men

Mikhail Khodorkovsky (Jewish), 40: worth £4.72 billion and Russia's richest man. Head of Yukos and critic of Vladimir Putin. Arrested on October 25th, charged with fraud and tax evasion and faces up to 10 years if convicted.

Roman Abramovich (Jewish), 37: worth £3.3 billion. Governor of Chukotka, in the Far East. Recently merged his Sibneft oil company with Yukos and is cashing in his assets.

Came to British attention buying Chelsea FC this summer.

Mikhael Fridman (Jewish): worth £2.54 billion. Co-founder of the Alpha group banking and owns part of TNK, the oil giant that recently began a joint venture with BP - the largest single British investment in Russia.

Boris Berezovsky (Jewish), 57: worth £1.77 billion. Once the most powerful oligarch, fled Russia nearly three years ago after falling out with Putin. Soviet-era mathematician who has owned a car dealership, a media empire, Aeroflot and vast oil and aluminum holdings. Granted asylum in Britain in September and now deals in London property.

Vladimir Potanin (Russian), 42: worth £944 million. Head of Interros Group, a media, banking and heavy metals empire. Its Norilsk Nickel subsidiary controls the world's largest nickel and palladium deposits. Former deputy prime minister.

*Oleg Deripaska (Jewish), 35: worth £885 million. Aluminium tycoon. Controls Gaz, Russia's largest car maker, several bus plants and a quarter of Aeroflot. Close to the family of Boris Yeltsin.

Vladimir Guzinsky (Jewish) 53: once worth more than £250 million. Former theatre director who became rich developing Moscow. Later built up Media Most, a media and banking empire. Arrested and stripped of his assets after falling out with Putin. Now lives in exile between America and Israel.

Jewish billionaires club

by: Leslie Bunder

Forbes magazine

Successful Jews from across the globe have made it to the annual Forbes billionaires issue.

Another Russian, metals tycoon Oleg Deripaska has a worth of $13.3bn.

Oleg Deripaska: Aluminum King

Oleg Deripaska, born in 1968, is Russia's youngest billionaire at age 35. Deripaska accumulated a business empire through a series of ruthless and elaborate, though technically legal, takeover raids. When the Soviet Union collapsed in 1991, he was a 23-year-old student at Moscow State University. He soon got a job in the fledgling metals trading market. By 1994, he was chief financial officer of Aluminprodukt. Through the company, he bought a stake in a Siberian smelter plant, beginning his ascent to the top of one of Russia's roughest industries. Deripaska became the plant's manager to protect it from a takeover by its former owner, who once threatened him with a grenade launcher. Later, Deripaska waged his own revolt to take over the shares of the London-based Transworld Group, then owned by controversial multimillionaire Mikhail Chernoi. Fellow oligarch Roman Abramovich became Deripaska's partner; in early 2000, the two created a joint venture called Russian Aluminum (RusAl). Today, RusAl has $4 billion in annual sales and is the world's second-largest aluminum producer. Deripaska owns 75 percent of the company. His other businesses include power stations, Russia's largest car and commercial vehicle manufacturer, and the country's largest insurance company.

Political Connections:

Deripaska is married to Polina Yumashev, the daughter of former President Boris Yeltsin's chief of staff. Deripaska's father-in-law in turn married Yeltsin's daughter, which makes Deripaska a grandson of Yeltsin by marriage. In the current political climate of struggles between the Kremlin and oligarchs, Russian news media speculated in July 2003 that Deripaska would be "next in line" for investigations of his business practice by the Kremlin. One of Deripaska's deputies at Russian Aluminum, the executive in charge of contacts with state agencies, is running in the December 2003 election for the State Duma (the lower chamber of the Russian parliament) on the ticket of the center-right, ruling Liberal Democratic Party of Russia.

Notoriety:

In late 2000, a competitor filed a civil suit for racketeering against Deripaska and his company in a New York court, including charges of bribery, judicial corruption and armed force. The judge dismissed the case on jurisdictional grounds. Deripaska was barred from travel to the United States and from entrance to the Davos economic summit in Switzerland. Deripaska has also become an outspoken opponent of Russia's entry into the World Trade Organization, clashing on the issue with U.S. ambassador to Russia Alexander Vershbow.

Nathaniel Rothschild

A Rothschild's Lineage More than 200 years after Mayer Amschel Rothschild founded the family dynasty that offered discreet counsel and investment wisdom to kings, queens, emperors and industrial titans, his 35-year-old direct descendant, Nathaniel, has emerged as a kingmaker in his own right and an investor who some say may become the richest Rothschild of them all.

In five short years, the man in line to be the fifth Baron Rothschild is close to becoming a billionaire through a web of private equity investments in Ukraine, Eastern Europe and most significant, his partnership stake in Atticus Capital, the fast-growing $14 billion hedge fund.

The ascent of Mr. Rothschild is a vivid illustration of how the still glittering, if somewhat faded, prestige and wealth of Europe's most storied banking family has been reinvigorated from bold bets in this era's new-money investment vehicles.

Like his forebears, he prefers that his influence remain unseen.

Mr. Rothschild is a principal adviser to Oleg Deripaska, one of the richest oligarchs in Russia and the owner of the aluminum giant Rusal, which recently merged with two other companies to create the world's largest aluminum company. Mr. Rothschild received no public credit despite having played a crucial role in getting the deal done.

- THE HOUSE OF ROTHSCHILD PURCHASED LAND IN ISRAEL

“In 1836, [Zevi] Kalischer appealed to Mayer Amschel (who by now had changed his name to Rothschild) to buy out completely the land of Israel or at least Jerusalem and particularly the Temple area in order to ‘bring about the miraculous redemption from below’. Zevi Kalischer said the salvation promised by the prophets of old could come only gradually and by self-help from the Jews. The year 1840 brought with it problems in Damascus. Father Thomas, a Capuchian of the Catholic faith, disappeared; it was reputed that he had been murdered by Jews for ritual purposes. French and Syrian authorities joined in and many Jewish adults and children were arrested and tortured; some were even killed. Rothschild and Montefiore and Cremieux got together, sought action, and this resulted in Jewish people going to work on Rothschild's projects in Palestine. It is said, in fact, that it was this Damascus affair which helped establish the groundwork for the Alliance Israelite Universelle founded by Rothschild twenty years later.” (O.J. Graham, The Six-Pointed Star, New Puritan Library, 1984, p. 63-4)

"After making acquisitions in various places west of the Jordan, he turned his attention to buying land east of the Jordan, on the Golan. Toward the end of 1891 a certain Ahmed Pasha made it known that some 120,000 dunam of prime land in the triangle formed by the Yarmuk and the Allane rivers were up for sale at the bargain price of around 1.5 franc per dunam, provided that the sale was made 'en bloc,' i.e., for the total area. There followed intensive discussions among various Jewish groups interested in the offer, among them groups in Russia, New York and London. The Baron agreed to cover the whole cost of the purchase.

"Since the Baron was always keen to preserve his anonymity, he arranged for the deeds to be registered in the name of Emile Frank, the Representative of Alliance Israelite in Beirut. The plan called for the Russian group, under Ekaterinoslav, to take 25,000 dunam and the Americans also 25,000, with other holders taking the balance. But since these groups did not come up with the money, it fell to the Baron to become the owner of the major part of the Golan Purchase.

"When the Baron died in 1934, 80,000 dunam on the Golan were owned by the Rothschild company, PICA (Palestine Jewish Colonization Association). The land had been registered in the name of PICA in 1929. The Syrian government - Syria was then practically a French colony - tried in the 1940s to confiscate the land but failed. In 1957, the son of Baron Edmonde, Baron James de Rothschild (1878 - 1957), as one of his last acts in his life, transferred the deeds to the Jewish National Fund (Keren Kayemet) and from there to the Land Office of Israel. All deeds and other documents were transferred to Israel's Foreign Ministry of Foreign Affairs." ("The Golan Heights: Geography, Geology and History," Jewish Virtual Library)

McCain's Paris Romance

French President Nicolas Sarkozy greets U.S. Republican Presidential hopeful, Senator John McCain, upon his arrival at Elysee Palace, Paris, France, March 21, 2008.

“McCain...praised Sarkozy's leadership in environmental issues, pushing the harder international line against Iran's nuclear ambitions, and fighting terrorism. McCain called Sarkozy a 'man of enormous energy' who has been central to bringing Franco-American relations into 'an era of friendship and cooperation.'

Indeed, McCain was so generous in his applause of Sarkozy — whose tumbling approval ratings of 38% at home could use all the lift they can get — that at one point he appeared to inadvertently tip a diplomatic hand France has yet to play. Acknowledging Sarkozy's support and commitment to international peacekeeping and combat missions, McCain stressed the importance of 'France's military participation in Afghanistan ... and of the brave forces of this country in fighting the Taliban.' As part of that, McCain also thanked Sarkozy for 'agreeing to send additional' troops to Afghanistan. That comment appeared to confirm unofficial reports that French president is planning announce his decision to increase France's Afghanistan contingent of 1,600 soldiers. The move — if it is indeed made at next month's NATO conference — would come in the wake of vigorous U.S. demands that its allies make a greater contribution to the Afghan effort. It could also possibly renew complaints in France that Sarkozy has tailored French foreign policy to please American politicians.

“But while his warm words undoubtedly caused Sarkozy's ears to tingle warmly when they reached him within the Elysée, McCain made it clear elsewhere he was in Paris on a mission of his own. Flanked by fellow Senators Joe Lieberman and Lindsey Graham, McCain noted they'd undertaken their week long fact-finding tour of Iraq, Jordan, Israel, England and France as members of Congress's Armed Services committee...”

“...it is well known that Sarkozy's mother was born to the Mallah family, one of the oldest Jewish families of Salonika, Greece. Additionally, many may be surprised to learn that his yet-to-be-revealed family history involves a true and fascinating story of leadership, heroism and survival. It remains to be seen whether his personal history will affect his foreign policy and France's role in the Middle East conflict.

“In the 15th century, the Mallah family (in Hebrew: messenger or angel) escaped the Spanish Inquisition to Provence, France and moved about one hundred years later to Salonika. In Greece, several family members became prominent Zionist leaders, active in the local and national political, economic, social and cultural life. To this day many Mallahs are still active Zionists around the world.

“Sarkozy's grandfather, Aron Mallah, nicknamed Benkio, was born in 1890. Benkio's uncle Moshe was a well-known Rabbi and a devoted Zionist who, in 1898 published and edited "El Avenir", the leading paper of the Zionist national movement in Greece at the time. His cousin, Asher, was a Senator in the Greek Senate and in 1912 he helped guarantee the establishment of the Technion — the elite technological university in Haifa, Israel. In 1919 he was elected as the first President of the Zionist Federation of Greece and he headed the Zionist Council for several years. In the 1930's he helped Jews flee to Israel, to which he himself immigrated in 1934. Another of Benkio's cousins, Peppo Mallah, was a philanthropist for Jewish causes who served in the Greek Parliament, and in 1920 he was offered, but declined, the position of Greece's Minister of Finance. After the establishment of the State of Israel he became the country's first diplomatic envoy to Greece.” (continued)

McCain = "SON OF CAIN" / ACCORDING TO MANY OCCULT SOURCES, CAIN Sired THE MEROVINGIAN RACE:

"...the Rabbins teach that 'Kin (Cain), the Evil, was the Son of Eve by Sammael, the devil who took Adam's place'..." (H.P. Blavatsky, The Secret Doctrine, Vol. II, p. 388)

"McCain means literally, Son of Cain. In the rabbinic tradition Cain is said to be the product of Eve copulating with the serpent in the Garden of Eden. Cain's son was Enoch of whom many rabbinic traditions exist including an association with the Kabbalistic 'angel' 'Metatron.' Rabbinic tradition holds that Enoch/'Metatron' taught the 'oral tradition' (i.e. Talmud, Kabbalah) and the 'secrets' of the 'written Torah' (i.e. Old Testament) to the prophets. 'Metatron' is the 'Knower of Secrets' according to the rabbis. The rabbis claim Enoch was 'reborn' as 'Metatron.' Time magazine (founded by Skull and Bones member, Henry Luce) likens John McCain to a Phoenix, a mythical bird which self-immolates and is reborn in a new form.'" ("Son of Cain: A Phoenix Rising")

"The Nephilim were banished to the center of the earth for disobeying God by mating with the daughters of men and teaching them the 'forbidden' arts. In this publication the Nephilim have been identified as the Fathers of the Merovingians... Enki is associated with Cain, and Cain was a very bad boy. Enki was an infernal god that has been identified, in this publication, as siring the Merovingian race. ...Enki has been associated with Set...who is also Satan..." ("Kenneth Grant and the Merovingian Mythos")

"The Eye Over the Throne was a hieroglyph used in Egypt and Sumeria to denote the world monarchy of the Atlantean Gods. Since here it is called 'Kingu', obviously he was one of these 'kings', perhaps related etymologically to 'Cain', whose name is the root from which the word 'king' comes, and who is said to be one of the eldest ancestors of the Grail family." (922)

"One of the interesting items from the archives of the Dragon Court was the origin of the word 'kingship'. It derives from the very earliest of Sumerian culture wherein 'kingship' was identical with 'kinship' - and 'kin' means 'blood relative'. In its original form, 'kinship' was 'Kainship'. And the first King of the Messianic Dragon succession was the biblical 'C(Kain)', head of the Sumerian House of Kish.

"On recognizing this, one can immediately see the first anomaly in the tradition of the Genesis story, for the historical line from David to Jesus was not from Adam and Eve's son, Seth, at all. It was from Eve's son Cain, whose recorded successors (although given little space in the Old Testament) were the first great Kings (or Kains) of Mesopotamia and Egypt...

"According to the Dragon tradition, the importance of Cain was that he was directly produced by Enki [Satan] and Ava [Eve], so his blood was three quarters Anunnaki. His half brothers Hevel and Satanael (better known as Abel and Seth) were less than half Anunnaki, being the offspring of Ateba and Ava (Adam and Eve)...

"We can now progress our story by considering the oldest Grant of Arms in sovereign history - the Grant of Arms which denoted the Messianic Dragon Bloodline for all time. The Sumerians referred to this insignia as the Gra-al... From biblical history, we know it better as the 'Mark of Cain'." (Laurence Gardner, "Starfire: Gold of the Gods" Part I, 612)

BARACK OBAMA

Of Politics and Genealogy: US Edition

This article is based on several online genealogies of the three candidates, the most comprehensive of which is <http://www.wargs.com/political>

Barack Obama, one of the two Democratic contenders for the presidency, is perhaps, among the three candidates, the most genealogically diversified. His bloodline consists of Luo (Kenyan), English, German, Irish, Welsh, and smattering of French and Dutch ancestries. His pedigree shows different groups of people spanning several generations from different places. (Click here to see his pedigree chart).

Obama's Kenyan ancestry is sketchy, and is traced only through the male line. (Click here for a diagram of his Kenyan ancestry.) Much of his known family tree is through his maternal side, and it is here that we find many interesting relations to the senator.

Obama could count at least two royal ancestors: William I "the Lion", King of Scotland, and Henry II of England. He is related to at least six US Presidents: Jimmy Carter (half 7th cousins three times removed), Harry Truman (7th cousins three times removed), the 2 George Bushes (10th cousins once and twice removed, respectively), Woodrow Wilson (husband of Obama's 6th cousin five times removed), and James Madison (3rd cousin nine times removed). He is also a ninth cousin once removed of Vice-President Dick Cheney. He has several relative lawmakers and Supreme Court Justices, as well.

But Obama's ancestry is not limited to political personalities. He is a 7th cousin four times removed of renowned artist Georgia O'Keefe, and his eighth cousin once removed, Elizabeth H. Richardson, was married to novelist Ernest M. Hemingway. Another relative is Gordon B. Hinkley, President of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints. Theodore N. Vail, founder of AT&T, is a sixth cousin four times removed, while banker JP Morgan is a 7th cousin four times removed.

SEE: MITT ROMNEY'S MORMONISM

Other interesting relations of Senator Obama are actors: Margaux Hemingway, his 9th cousin; Superman Christopher Reeve, a 7th cousin twice removed, and Katharine Hepburn, a 7th cousin thrice removed, and Brad Pitt is a 9th cousin. Even Justin Timberlake is Obama's 11th cousin! A truly interesting approach to American politics.

- KING WILLIAM I, "THE LION", OF SCOTLAND
  - WAS A DESCENDANT OF GODFROI DE BOUILLON, THE FIRST GRAND MASTER OF THE PRIEURÉ DE SION
  - MARRIED THE GREAT-GREAT-GREAT GRANDDAUGHTER OF WILLIAM THE CONQUEROR, KING WILLIAM I OF ENGLAND (1066-87)

"When King David died in 1153 he left no surviving heir, his only son Henry of Huntingdon having predeceased him by a year. Nevertheless, Henry left three sons and three daughters, whereby Scotland's succession was assured. His eldest son became Malcolm IV (1153-65), whose reign was the most uninspired in Scottish history...and, although he had an illegitimate son, he refused to marry. Seizing the opportunity with the ineffectual young king, Henry II Plantagenet demanded that Malcolm should pass over his Cumbrian and Northumbrian rights to the Crown of England. Malcolm IV, who was then only 13, duly complied without argument, and then went to Toulouse, to spend most of his remaining years in France...

"At the age of 24 Malcolm IV died, to be succeeded by his younger brother William, who was a couple of years younger... Willim was nicknamed 'the Lion', and before long he sought to regain Northumberland and Cumberland from Henry Plantagenet...

"At the time Henry II of England was married to Eleanor of Aquitaine (the divorced wife of Louis VII of France), but their sons (with Eleanor's approval) sided with King William of Scots in the northern dispute, standing against their father on the battlefield. Unfortunately,...the Scots lost the day...

"William was the first king to carry Scotland's Red Lion on a field of Gold, and so he acquired his nickname, 'the Lion'....

"...David I and his wife Maud de Lens...a cousin of Godefroi de Bouillon, Guardian of the newly created kingdom of Jerusalem." (Prince Michael Stewart, The Forgotten Monarchy of Scotland, p. 43)

- KING HENRY II OF ENGLAND WAS OF THE ANGEVIN / PLANTAGENET BLOODLINE:

"Using his father's surname, Henry II began the new Angevin dynasty of 'Plantagenet' kings... ..eventually the Plantagenets became more of a threat to the Scots than had any rulers south of the Border." (Prince Michael Stewart, The Forgotten Monarchy of Scotland, pp. 36, )

FROM: THE MEROVINGIAN DYNASTY: IDENTITY OF THE FALSE CHRIST:

"The Templar Revelation lists among the Merovingian Rex Deus families who strategized the First Crusade the "Counts of Champagne, Lords of Gisors, Lords of Payen, Counts of Fontaine, Counts of Anjou, de Bouillon, St. Clairs of Roslin, Brienne, Joinville, Chaumont, St Clair de Gisor, St Clair de Neg and the Hapsburgs..." Godfroi de Bouillon who became the King of Jerusalem and first Grand Master of the Knights Templar was a descendant of King Dagobert through Hugues de Plantard. From these families descended the Saint-Clair (Sinclair) and Plantard bloodlines, as well as the Hapsburg dynasty which is allied with Plantard through the House of Lorraine.

"...Although it was deposed in the eighth century, the Merovingian bloodline did not become extinct... By dint of dynastic alliances and intermarriages, this line came to include Godfroi de Bouillon, who captured Jerusalem in 1099,.and various other noble and royal families, past and present—Blanchefort, Gisors, Saint-Clair—Sinclair in England...Plantard, and Hapsburg-Lorraine...

"...in the tenth century a certain Hugues de Plantard...a literal descendant of both Dagobert and Guillem de Gellon—became the father of Eustache, the first count of Boulogne. Eustache's grandson was Godfroi de Bouillon, duke of Lorraine and conqueror of Jerusalem. And from Godfroi there issued a dynasty and a 'royal tradition' that, by virtue of being founded on 'the rock of Sion,' was equal to those presiding over France, England, and Germany. If the Merovingians were indeed descended from Jesus, then Godfroi—scion of the Merovingian blood royal—had, in his conquest of Jerusalem, regained his rightful heritage...

"There are at least a dozen families in Britain and Europe today—with numerous collateral branches—who are of Merovingian lineage. These include the houses of Hapsburg-Lorraine (present titular dukes of Lorraine and kings of Jerusalem), PLANTARD, Luxembourg, Montpezat, Montesquiou, and various others. According to the 'Prieuré documents,' the SINCLAIR family in Britain is also allied to the bloodline, as are various branches of the Stuarts..." - (Baigent, Leigh & Lincoln, Holy Blood, Holy Grail, pp. 107, 396, 409-10)

"The first Angevin dynasty was known from the 12th century as the Plantagenet dynasty through the House of Anjou which produced King Henry II and subsequent kings:

"Geoffrey Plante Genest, count of Anjou and Maine was the father of king Henry II of England and, amongst others, Hamelyn (Plantagenet), Warren earl of Surrey (London). The first evidence for the Pl(a/e)nte name in England is found in 1219, just after the times of Henry II's son, the lecherous king John.

"In 1200, king John married Isabella of Angouleme in Aquitaine who subsequently married Hugh de Lusignan, the most prominent baron of Aquitaine. In 1247, John (Plantagenet) (de Warenne) married Alice Lusignan (de Brien) and English resentments of favouritism towards the 'foreign' Lusignans led on to the Baron's revolt in England, leading to the capture of king Henry III at Lewes (1264), though the king was freed by John (Plantagenet) (de Warenne) at Evesham (1265)." - 950

"The Plantagenets were themselves a junior branch of the House of Anjou, whose senior branch was the House of Vere [whose] ancestry was jointly Pictish and Merovingian descending from the ancient Grail House of Scythia." (Laurence Gardner, "In the Realm of the Ring Lords," p. 8)

"According to the 'Prieuré documents' the lords of Anjou-Plantagenet family were thus allied to the Merovingian bloodline. And the name of Plantagenet may even have been intended to echo 'Plant-ard' or Plantard.'" (Holy Blood, Holy Grail, p. 302)

"Only two direct lines of Merovingians remain. Their family names are Plantard and Saint-Clair. Both families live in hiding, probably protected by the Priory." (The Da Vinci Code, p. 260)

ANGEVIN = ANGEL VINE / SEE MYSTERY BABYLON: CATHOLIC OR JEWISH?

Anjou (pronounced "an Jew") was a Jewish province in France. The term "Angevin" or "Angevine" is the name applied to two distinct medieval dynasties that originated from Anjou. Angevin/Angevine is also associated with angels, which may explain why this Jewish bloodline had more than just a passing interest in the writings of the Nephilim. The Angevins were a senior branch (angel + vine) of the Merovingian bloodline whose members viewed themselves as divine descendants of the fallen angels of Genesis 6. The Jesus-Mary Magdalene bloodline heresy is really the exoteric doctrine of the Merovingian race, and an occult blind for religious masses; the esoteric doctrine, known only to the initiated, is the descent of the Merovingian race from the fallen angels of Genesis 6. Which explains why the founder of the dynasty, King Merovee, is said to have been sired by mysterious sea beast, Pallas or i.e. the beast out of the sea, per Rev. 13:1. A book titled King John 1167-1216 by W. L. Warren, depicts the Angevins as literally having demonic ancestry:

“The violent temper of the Angivins, their vicious reaction being thwarted, was almost pathological in its intensity... ‘From the Devil they came’, growled St. Bernard, ‘and to the Devil they will return.’ There were many who agreed with him. Popular gossip told of their descent from a devilish ancestress...”

Lynne Cheney: ‘Dick and Barack Obama are eighth cousins.’ In an MSNBC interview today, host Norah O’Donnell asked Lynne Cheney her views on Sen. One of the things I discovered was that Dick and Barack Obama are eighth cousins. Is that an amazing thing? If you go back eight generations, we have a common ancestor.

When asked if that means she’s “for Barack Obama,” Cheney replied, “No.”

Mareen Duvall was born about 1625, in the Kingdom of France and settled on the south side of the South River in Anne Arundel County, Province of Maryland circa 1655. The first tract of land patented to him in 1659 by Lord Baltimore was called "Laval," the name of an ancient town, the capital of the present Department of Mayenne in France. He was a planter and merchant, and a public spirited citizen of the Province until his death in 1694. He resided at the time of his death at his estate, Middle Plantation, located on South River, and patented to him in 1664 by the Lord Proprietary. His public service consisted in part, with leadership in the Jacobite Party, and the Provincial Archives show his appointment to the Provincial Commission in 1683 by the Proprietary and Assembly, to lay out town sites and ports of entry for the encouragement of trade. He was the patentee of numerous tracts of land, and the purchaser of many others containing several thousand acres, as evidenced by the Public Land Records and his will dated, and probated in August, 1694.

Judge Gabriel Duvall

Counted among the descendants are thousands of Americans from all walks of life. Judge Gabriel Duvall (1752-1844), a close friend of Thomas Jefferson, served as a member of the Maryland House of Delegates, the United States Congress, Comptroller of the United States Treasury, and later as Associate Justice of the United States Supreme Court.

Judge Duvall's plantation home, known as Marietta, is located in Glenn Dale, Maryland. Marietta, built in 1813, is a large two-story brick Georgian style structure. The Society has restored the Law Office of Justice Gabriel Duvall, which is a separate brick structure across from the main house. The Society raised the funds and received a matching grant from the State of Maryland to assist in the restoration of the Law Office. Marietta, the official headquarters of the Society, as well as the Prince George's County Historical Society, is owned and operated by the Maryland National-Capital Park and Planning Commission.

Visitors to the Washington, DC metropolitan area, may tour Gabriel Duvall's home and law office, located at 5626 Bell Station Road in Glenn Dale, Maryland. From the Capitol Beltway, I-495, take MD-450 East, Annapolis Road, turn Right onto MD-193, Glenn Dale Boulevard, and turn Left onto Bell Station Road.

Rabbi key to Obama’s bid for Jewish vote

Democratic U.S. Presidential candidate Barack Obama, who has been struggling to gain the Jewish vote, could have taken advantage of his wife’s cousin who’s one of the most distinguished black rabbis in the U.S. Still, this has almost slipped media attention as Obama has been cautious in mentioning his family’s connection.

Michelle Obama’s cousin is Rabbi Capers C. Funnye, spiritual leader of a mostly black synagogue on Chicago's South Side. Funnye's mother, Verdelle Robinson Funnye (born Verdelle Robinson) and Michelle Obama's paternal grandfather, Frasier Robinson Jr., were brother and sister.

Funnye is chief rabbi at the Beth Shalom B'nai Zaken Ethiopian Hebrew Congregation. He also serves on the Chicago Board of Rabbis.

The rabbi is known for his efforts to bring together the mainstream Jewish population and smaller black Jewish congregations - commonly referred to as Hebrews or Israelites. He has repeatedly called on the larger Jewish community to accept more non-white Jews.

Much analysis of Obama's relationship with the Jewish community has been made during the presidential campaign. On the one hand, wealthy Jewish families played a major role in Obama's rise to power in Chicago. On the other hand, the presidential nominee has not been a success breaking scepticism by the Jewish community over Israel. Moreover, there are persistent rumours (which are false) that Barack Obama is a Muslim, with a number of articles appearing in online editions and discussions in blogs and forums.

Funnye denies any involvement in Obama's campaign but admits he has donated money to it. Nor does he deny his family's connection with the Democratic presidential nominee, and it is common knowledge among his Chicago congregation.

Funnye's congregation describes itself as Ethiopian Hebrew but it is in fact not related to the Jewish community of Ethiopia, most of whom have immigrated to Israel in recent decades. It is also not linked to the Hebrew Israelite black supremacist group whose street demonstrations have become familiar spectacles in a number of American cities.

OBAMA CLAIMS JEWISH 'KINSHIP'

by Christi Parsons

Race, his middle name and "scurrilous emails" about him are partly responsible for the discomfort some people have with him, Barack Obama told Jewish leaders in a private meeting in the Philadelphia area today.

He also told the group of 75 leaders at a local synagogue that he feels a sense of "kinship" with the Jewish community, and that he has been influenced in his life by Jewish writers, philosophers and friends.

"There is a kinship and a sense of shared community that predates my political career and will extend beyond this particular election," Obama said, according to the pool report from the closed-door event. "Know that I will be there for you, just as I believe that you will be there for me."

"My links to the Jewish community are not political," he said. "They preceded my entry into politics."

Before Obama showed up, several of his supporters spoke to the assembly at Rodeph Shalom synagogue, according to Larry Eichel, the Philadelphia Inquirer senior writer who filed the account for the traveling press corps.

All of the speakers reportedly offered assurances that Obama is a friend of Israel and of the American Jewish community.

Rep. Robert Wexler (D-Fla.) told the group that Obama "unequivocally rejects the Palestinian right of return" because he understands that Israel must remain a Jewish state, according to Eichel's report.

"KINSHIP" = KAINSHIP

"One of the interesting items from the archives of the Dragon Court was the origin of the word 'kingship'. It derives from the very earliest of Sumerian culture wherein

'kingship' was identical with 'kinship' - and 'kin' means 'blood relative'. In its original form, 'kinship' was 'Kainship'. And the first King of the Messianic Dragon succession was the biblical 'C(Kain)', head of the Sumerian House of Kish...

""According to the Dragon tradition, the importance of Cain was that he was directly produced by Enki [Satan] and Ava [Eve], so his blood was three quarters Anunnaki. His half brothers Hevel and Satanael (better known as Abel and Seth) were less than half Anunnaki, being the offspring of Ateba and Ava (Adam and Eve)...

"We can now progress our story by considering the oldest Grant of Arms in sovereign history - the Grant of Arms which denoted the Messianic Dragon Bloodline for all time. The Sumerians referred to this insignia as the Gra-al... From biblical history, we know it better as the 'Mark of Cain'." (Laurence Gardner, "Starfire: Gold of the Gods," Nexus Magazine, Dec./Jan. 1988-1989)

Jerusalem – United States Senator Barack Obama of Illinois, traveling in Israel this week, met Friday with Ethiopian immigrants remaking their lives in the Jewish homeland with the support of the Jewish federations of North America. The meeting was arranged by the Jewish United Fund/Jewish Federation of Metropolitan Chicago (JUF).

“This meeting has provided a picture that I can take home,” Sen. Obama said, adding that it was an educational and valuable visit.

The senator, on the last of four days spent touring the country and meeting officials, shared lunch Friday with beneficiaries of Operation Promise, a major initiative of the Jewish federation network to bring thousands of Ethiopian Jews to Israel and help them create productive lives there.

Among those who visited with the senator today was Yardena Fanta-Vagenstein, a new mother who emigrated from Ethiopia to Israel, earned a doctorate degree and is now an educator. “The Jewish federations, through their support of Ethiopian immigrants, are not only helping us, they are changing our lives,” she told Sen. Obama. (continued)

In his first major public address since a cancer crisis, Nation of Islam Minister Louis Farrakhan said Sunday that presidential candidate Barack Obama is the "hope of the entire world" that the U.S. will change for the better.

The 74-year-old Farrakhan, addressing an estimated crowd of 20,000 people at the annual Saviours' Day celebration, never outrightly endorsed Obama but spent most of the nearly two-hour speech praising the Illinois senator.

"This young man is the hope of the entire world that America will change and be made better," he said. "This young man is capturing audiences of black and brown and red and yellow. If you look at Barack Obama's audiences and look at the effect of his words, those people are being transformed.

Farrakhan compared Obama to the religion's founder, Fard Muhammad, who also had a white mother and black father.

"A black man with a white mother became a savior to us," he told the crowd of mostly followers. "A black man with a white mother could turn out to be one who can lift America from her fall." (continued)

This case is now considerable since the early Ring Lords of Scythia (the Tuatha De Danaan king tribe) were actually called the ‘Sumaire’.’

“During the days of the Biblical Great Exodus, a group separated from Moses and went to the North. This group was the Tribe of Dann. Millions went and settled in the European and Scandinavian areas. From there they spread out to other parts of the world...conquering the countries, spreading their Anunnaki seed and replacing the conquered people’s traditions with their own serpent culture.” (“The Tribe of Dann and the Lost Tribe of Israel”)

by William Addams Reitwiesner

In her autobiography, Living History, Sen. Clinton describes her maternal grandmother as "one of nine children from a family of French Canadian, Scottish and Native American ancestry". No records have been found to support this claimed Native American ancestry.

Hillary, Meet Your New Cousins: Angelina and Madonna

Washington genealogist William Addams Reitwiesner uncovered the ties, reports The Washington Post's Reliable Source column.

It turns out the Democratic presidential candidate, Hillary Clinton, 60, and the Material Girl, MaDonna [The Black Madonna], 49, are 10th cousins. They share the same great-great-great-great-great-great-great-great-grandparents – 17th-century French ancestors who moved to Quebec and then came south.

The former First Lady can also count Jolie, 32, as a ninth cousin, twice removed.

Hillary has Jews in her family, but will it affect her campaign?

MATTHEW DORF

Jewish Telegraphic Agency

WASHINGTON -- "OY VEY!" the New York Post blared across its front page in 3-inch letters last week.

"Hillary's ALMOST Jewish."

An accompanying column carried the headline, "The First Shiksa wants to be a yenta? Oy!"

New York's supercharged Senate campaign took a distinctly Jewish turn last week when the Forward, a weekly Jewish newspaper, reported that Clinton has some Jews on her family tree. Her step-grandfather was Jewish and her mother's half-sister converted.

The Forward called Clinton's grandmother, Della Rosenberg, "the feisty wife of a Yiddish-speaking Jewish immigrant" and predicted that the revelation would boost her Senate chances.

But even if Clinton were Jewish, her background would not influence Jewish voters, according to pollsters, analysts and politicians.

"Ethnicity has very little to do with how Jews vote," said John Zogby, president of Zogby International, a New York-based polling firm that has conducted many surveys of Jewish voters.

"Basically those who really viscerally dislike Hillary will add another notch in the column and ask, 'What's she trying to do?'" Zogby said.

And those who support her will ignore the issue, he said.

To be sure, Clinton has made courting Jewish voters a central focus of her campaign. One out of every eight voters in New York is Jewish, making them a key constituency in her campaign.

Former New York City Mayor Ed Koch tried to put the revelation into perspective.

"I think it's much ado about nothing," he said Sunday on ABC's "This Week" news show.

"I'm a proud member of the Jewish faith, and it would be wonderful if Hillary were Jewish. But she's not," Koch said.

According to the Forward, Clinton's maternal grandmother, Della Murray, divorced her husband in 1927 and remarried Max Rosenberg in 1933. Together they had a daughter, Adeline.

Like many activists from both parties, Koch said it "means nothing" that Clinton has Jewish relatives.

"Jews don't vote, normally, on the basis of ethnicity," Koch said.

While the impact of the story is not fully known, pollsters are watching the Jewish vote carefully. Zogby predicts that the winner of the Jewish vote will win the election.

A compilation of Zogby polls over the last eight months released this week shows New York Mayor Rudy Giuliani leading Clinton, 43.9 percent to 41.8 percent, among Jewish voters.

The sample of 678 Jewish voters, with a margin of error of plus or minus 4 percent, has 14.3 percent undecided. Among all voters, Giuliani leads Clinton by 46.9 to 41.7 percent, Zogby said.

"Hillary is not doing as well among Jewish voters as a Democrat normally would do," Zogby said.

At the same time, Giuliani does better among Jewish voters than a Republican normally would, he said.

In 1996, Republican Party leaders supported the Senate bid of Dick Zimmer, a New Jersey Republican, in part because he is Jewish. But when the votes were counted, his opponent, Sen. Robert Torricelli (D-N.J.), received almost 80 percent of the Jewish vote, according to exit polls conducted by Zogby for the New Jersey Jewish News. New Jersey's other senator, Frank Lautenberg, a Democrat who is Jewish, received less Jewish support than Torricelli did in his last election, polls showed.

In other recent races, Rep. Jon Fox, a Jewish Republican from suburban Philadelphia, received an estimated 25 percent of the Jewish vote in his losing 1998 battle for re-election against Rep. Joe Hoeffel (D-Pa.). And in New York, some 70 percent of Jewish voters supported Giuliani in his race against Ruth Messinger, a Jewish Democrat.

"Because someone married someone Jewish three decades ago is not particularly relevant," said Matt Brooks, executive director of the Republican Jewish Coalition. He added that the revelation is simply "a humorous one-day anecdotal story."

Asked about Max Rosenberg, a spokesman for Mrs. Clinton's Senate exploratory committee, Howard Wolfson, said the first lady has very fond memories of him.

Enter Max Rosenberg. Born in 1901 in Russia, the son of Joseph and Mollie, by 1933 Max Rosenberg had made his way to Chicago, where he married Della Murray. A city court judge performed the ceremony, according to a copy of the marriage license. His mother, Mollie, was a member of the Hebrew Immigrant Aid Society and the Sisterhood of Agudas Achim North Shore congregation, according to a death notice published in The Chicago Tribune. Mollie was a subscriber to the Yiddish Forward, according to court records of her estate. (A Chicago attorney and genealogist, Charles Bernstein, assisted the Forward with the documentary research for this article.)

The backdrop of Max and Della Rosenberg's life puts some aspects of the first lady's relationship with Jews into a new light. Some of her oldest and closest friends and associates include Jewish women -- Sara Ehrman, Ann Lewis, Patty Kenner.

TALLAHASSEE WASHINGTON

A disproportionate share of the Democratic super delegates — the people who may ultimately decide who gets the party's presidential campaign — are Jewish. And, a new survey shows, many are supporting Hillary Clinton.

More than 70 of the 800 super delegates are Jewish.

At this point, 36 have declared their support for Clinton. That includes U.S. Rep. Debbie Wasserman Schultz, D-Weston, a national co-chairwoman of the Clinton campaign.

Another 12 are supporting Barack Obama. That includes U.S. Rep. Robert Wexler, D-Delray Beach, Florida co-chairman for Obama.

And 26 are undeclared.

Undeclared Jewish super delegates from South Florida are U.S. Rep. Ron Klein, D-

Boca Raton; Broward Democratic Chairman Mitch Ceasar; and Diane Glasser of Tamarac, vice chairwoman of the state Democratic Party.

The information comes from a survey and analysis conducted by the Forward, the influential and well-known Jewish newspaper.

The Forward concluded that "Jewish insiders could play an outsized role in anointing a nominee" if the nomination ends up being determined by super delegates. — Anthony Man

Can you connect these dots? Madonna-Bill Clinton-Kabbalah-Anthony Pellicano and ... Africa?

Madonna's disastrous public-relations effort in the small African country of Malawi only gets worse. I can tell you that she has started a new charitable foundation, Raising Malawi, to help orphans in that country, but that the whole thing is a front for the Kabbalah Centre in Hollywood.

To compound matters, Clinton's own foundation is right there on Madge's new Web site as her No. 1 supporter. The Clinton Foundation is the only one of Raising Malawi's listed partners to have a usable link on the Web site. But the chief individual benefactress is the second wife of a Hollywood billionaire who hired jailed private detective Pellicano to spy on his first wife.

Don't the people of Malawi have enough trouble?

The charity, Raising Malawi, is designed to spread the word of Philip Berg's Kabbalah Centre, his own version of Kabbalah beliefs and mysticism, through Malawi's orphaned children.

Indeed, the Web site for Raising Malawi, the new charity, tells the whole story. The entire organization is run by the Bergs as a kind of missionary program for Africa, with Madonna as the leading proselytizer.

Madonna is already suffering worldwide criticism this week for taking a child away from its father and "adopting" it against Malawi law. Some say she's "bought" a 1-year-old boy named David, and Tuesday there was news that she whisked the child out of Malawi under the cloak of secrecy. There is fresh news Wednesday that now Madonna may even want a Malawian girl to add to her collection.

But now it seems that the charity she's set up in Malawi is just the infamous Kabbalah Centre of Hollywood under a different name. The listed founders of Raising Malawi are Michael and Monica Berg. He is described as the son of Philip Berg, founder of the Kabbalah Centre.

"In addition to physical support," his bio reads, "Michael is committed to providing psychosocial relief through the Spirituality for Kids curriculum." The latter organization is essentially Kabbalah for children, a group that Madonna endorses. The proceeds from her children's books went to that branch of Berg's organization.

Raising Malawi is run entirely by Spirituality for Kids, or Kabbalah, according to the site. Other leaders including SK's Director of Development Philippe van den Bossche, SK's Director of Research and Global Training Dr. Heath Grant, and "philanthropist"

Former President Bill Clinton is up to his eyeballs in dealings with Dubai, his former top political adviser has revealed.

According to Dick Morris, author of the best-selling book, "Condi vs, Hillary," Clinton is a paid agent of the crown prince of Dubai, now involved in a firestorm over its deal to take over some of the operations at six major U.S. ports.

"Bill Clinton is a senior adviser - a paid adviser - to a company called Yucaipa which recently set up a relationship with a group called the Yucaipa Investment group to set up a new company called DIGL," Morris said on "The O'Reilly Factor."

"DIGL Inc. is in charge of managing the investments of the crown prince of Dubai throughout the world. Bill Clinton is paid by Yucaipa a percentage of the profits it makes, and Yucaipa said its profits have exceeded 40 percent in recent years.

"He is a paid agent of the crown prince of Dubai. That in addition to the roughly million dollars they gave his library, in addition to the probably $600,000 in speaking fees he got, and in addition to the scholarships for Dubai children they endowed through his library. (Continued)

Bill Clinton to make \$20 million from Dubai-sleeping with the enemy-Now you know why Hillary will not show tax returns!!

Posted by allysonrt on January 23, 2008

Bill Clinton will get $20 million when he divorces Los Angeles supermarket magnate and (alleged) Radar owner Ron Burkle, his business partner of six years, The Wall Street Journal told us this morning. The reason for the split, it seems, is that Burkle's Yupaica company, for which Clinton was an adviser, can't seem to stay away from people who could harm Hillary Clinton's presidential campaign. For example? Italian developer Raffaello Follieri and Sheikh Mohammed bin Rashid al-Maktoum, the ruler of Dubai and one of the owners behind Xinhua Finance Media Ltd., a Beijing-based news company with close ties to the Communist government of China, which just gave Yucaipa a little cash infusion. Basically, Burkle loves sketchy investments like Eric Benet loved sex with groupies, and at this point in the election and his life, Clinton can't take the drama. "I love you, but I need to take care of myself," we imagine him saying to Burkle. "No more drama in my life." Despite Burkle's transgressions, the breakup appears to be amicable: A Clinton spokesperson speaks to the Journal not of a SPLIT!!! but "an appropriate transition" out of their business relationship, and Burkle remains a finance chair on Hillary's campaign.

Clinton, after all, understands promiscuity. Bill Clinton May Get Payout of $20 Million [WSJ]

INTRODUCTION

MITT ROMNEY

Mitt Romney's Mormonism

Mitt Romney's great-great-grandfather, Parley P. Pratt, was among the first leaders of the LDS Church in the early 19th century. His first cousin once removed Marion George Romney, was an Apostle of LDS Church. Mitt Romney's father, George W. Romney, was a patriarch of LDS Church.

Parley P. Pratt

Parley Parker Pratt (12 April 1807 – 13 May 1857) was a leader in the Latter Day Saint movement and an original member of Quorum of the Twelve Apostles from 1835 until his murder in 1857. He served in the Quorum with his younger brother, Orson Pratt. He was a missionary, poet, religious writer and longtime editor of the religious publication The Latter-day Saints' Millennial Star. Scenic Parley's Canyon in Salt Lake City, earlier known as Big Canyon, was renamed in his honor.

Pratt practiced plural marriage and had twelve wives. One great great grandson is Mitt Romney, former Massachusetts governor and suspended candidate for the 2008 Republican presidential nomination.[1]...

[Pratt] was also ordained to the office of an elder in the church. Continuing on to his family's home, he introduced his younger brother, Orson Pratt, to Mormonism and baptized him on 19 September 1830.

Pratt then returned to Fayette, New York in October 1830, where he met Joseph Smith and was asked to join a missionary group assigned to preach to the Native American (Lamanite) tribes on the Missouri frontier. During the trip west, he and his companions stopped to visit Sidney Rigdon, and were instrumental in converting Rigdon and approximately 130 members of his congregation within two to three weeks.

Pratt was later assigned additional missions to Canada, the Eastern United States, the Southern United States, England, the Pacific Islands, and to South America. He moved to Valparaiso, Chile to begin the missionary work there. They left after not much success and the death of his child Omner in 1852. In addition to his brother, Orson Pratt and Sidney Rigdon, he was instrumental in introducing the Mormon faith to a number of future LDS leaders, including Frederick G. Williams, John Taylor and his wife Leonora, Isaac Morley and Joseph Fielding and his sisters, Mary and Mercy Fielding.

In addition to serving as an active missionary, Pratt entered the leadership of the early Latter Day Saint movement acting as an original member of the Quorum of Twelve Apostles. While on a mission to the British Isles in 1839, Pratt was editor of a newly created periodical, The Latter-day Saints' Millennial Star. While presiding over the church's branches and interests in New England and the mid-Atlantic states, Pratt published a periodical entitled The Prophet from his headquarters in New York City. He was also a noted religious writer and poet. He produced an autobiography, as well as some poems which have become staple LDS hymns, some of which are included in the current LDS Church hymnal.

After the death of Joseph Smith, Pratt and his family were among the Latter Day Saints who emigrated to Utah Territory and continued on as The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints (LDS Church) under the direction of Brigham Young. Pratt was involved in establishing the refugee settlements and fields at both Garden Grove and Mt. Pisgah, Iowa and personally led a pioneer company along the Mormon Trail to the Salt Lake Valley. Sometime in the mid 1850s, working with George D. Watt, he helped develop the Deseret alphabet. In 1854, Pratt went to California to preside over the Pacific Mission of the LDS Church headquartered in San Francisco.

In the "Conversion Diary," then a newsletter of the French Mission, he is mentioned repeatedly for standout numbers of hours spent door-knocking, numbers of copies of the Book of Mormon distributed and numbers of invitations for return visits. He was promoted through the ranks, first to zone leader in Bordeaux, and then to the highest position attainable by a missionary, that of assistant to the mission president in Paris... In the absence of the mission president, who had returned to the United States after his wife's death, Romney took on a greater leadership role. It was during this period, in late 1968, that some people say they saw the first glimpses of the super-organized achiever who many knew in later years.

Mystery Babylon: Catholic or Jewish?

The founder of Mormonism, Joseph Smith, surrounded himself with 12 apostles of which his closest colleagues were Jewish Cabalists, Orson Hyde and Alexander Neibaur. Lance Owens wrote of Neibaur's intimate knowledge of the Cabala and his strong influence on Joseph Smith:

"That Neibaur brought a knowledge of Kabbalah to Nauvoo has been mentioned in several studies of the period. For instance, Newel and Avery note in their biography of Emma Smith, 'Through Alexander Neibaur, Joseph Smith had access to ancient Jewish rites called cabalism... That he not only knew something of Kabbalah, but apparently possessed a collection of original Jewish Kabbalistic works in Nauvoo, is however documented in material almost totally overlooked by Mormon historians.

"Can anyone familiar with the history and personality of Joseph Smith--the prophet who restored the secret knowledge and rituals conveyed to Adam, translated the works of Abraham, Enoch, and Moses, and retranslated Genesis--question that he would have been interested in the original version of this Jewish occult tradition? And here, in Neibaur, was a man who could share a version of that knowledge with him. Whatever the reasons for the similarities, it should be remembered that the Hermetic-Kabbalistic world view parallels Joseph's vision of God in many particulars. Not only might Joseph have been interested in this material, but he would have noted how similar this sacred, secret tradition was with his own restoration of ancient truth. And perhaps Neibaur, on a religious quest--from Judaism and Kabbalah, Europe and England, to Christianity and Mormonism and a new home in Nauvoo--saw or even amplified that intrinsic sympathy in his explications of the tradition for Joseph.

"Whatever the reasons for the similarities, it should be remembered that the Hermetic-Kabbalistic world view parallels Joseph's vision of God in many particulars. Not only might Joseph have been interested in this material, but he would have noted how similar this sacred, secret tradition was with his own restoration of ancient truth. And perhaps Neibaur, on a religious quest--from Judaism and Kabbalah, Europe and England, to Christianity and Mormonism and a new home in Nauvoo--saw or even amplified that intrinsic sympathy in his explications of the tradition for Joseph.

“Certainly the first text Joseph Smith would have confronted was the Zohar, the great heart of the Kabbalah. This is one of the works Neibaur cited repeatedly in his article and, as the central text of Kabbalah, is the key book any individual with Kabbalistic interests would have preserved in his library. Familiarity with the Zohar was a given for a Kabbalist, particularly one with knowledge of works as divergent as those cited by Neibaur, all of which expounded in some degree upon themes in the Zohar. If Neibaur had read to Joseph from any single text, or explained Kabbalistic concepts contained in a principal book, the Zohar would have been the book with which to start. This might explain why in 1844 Smith, in what may be his single greatest discourse and in the most important public statement of his theosophical vision, apparently quotes almost word for word from the first section of the Zohar.” (“Joseph Smith and Kabbalah: The Occult Connection”)

Smith’s other Jewish apostle and close colleague, Orson Hyde, made a trip to Jerusalem in the 1830s to dedicate the restoration of Israel to the Jews.

““In 1823 only a handful of Jews lived in Palestine, and those who did had no rights under Turkish rule. The roots of Zionism in the Jewish communities of Europe were barely stirring and the thought of Jews gathering at all was virtually unheard of let alone a return of the Jews to the Land of Palestine. But from that very time on, the spiritual stirrings of the Zionist movement began in earnest. God was about to give to special ‘keys’ to modern prophets as he had done with ancient ones; ‘keys’ to move the nations.

“In 1831, only a year after the Church was organized by Joseph Smith, another young man with a prophetic call by the name of Orson Hyde, age 26, of Jewish ancestry, was confirmed a member of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints by the Prophet Joseph. When Joseph laid his hands on the head of Orson Hyde he gave him a unique blessing where in he prophesied the following:

“In due time thou shalt go to Jerusalem, the land of they fathers, and be a watchman unto the House of Israel; and by thy hands shall the Most High do a great work, which shall prepare the way and greatly facilitate the gathering of that People.” (Ivan P. Barrett, Joseph Smith and the Restoration, p. 469)

LDS claims Mormons descended from the tribe of Ephraim

“Ephraim was the son of Joseph and Asenath and the younger brother of Manasseh (Gen. 41:50-52). According to the Bible, when Joseph brought his two sons to his father, Jacob, for a blessing, Ephraim received the birthright blessing in place of Manasseh (Gen. 48:13-20), one of the departures noted in the Bible from the custom of bestowing on the firstborn son the special privileges that belonged to him by right of primogeniture. The Lord continued to acknowledge Ephraim's blessing centuries later when he said, "I am a father to Israel, and Ephraim is my firstborn" (Jer. 31:9; cf. 1 Chr. 5:1-2). Ephraim's descendants will continue in significant roles. The Book of Mormon records that Joseph of old "obtained a promise of the Lord, that out of the fruit of his loins the Lord God would raise up a righteous branch unto the house of Israel...to be remembered in the covenants of the Lord" (2 Ne. 3:5). Further, a "choice seer" would arise from Joseph's descendants who would "do a work for the fruit of [Joseph's] loins, his brethren, which shall be of great worth unto them, even to the bringing of them to the knowledge of the covenants which I [the Lord] have made with thy fathers" (2 Ne. 3:7). Many Latter-day Saints believe that they are of the branch of Ephraim, of whom Joseph prophesied (2 Ne. 3:5-16; D&C 133:30-34) and that the Prophet Joseph Smith is the "choice seer" (3 Ne. 3:6).

“Because of their rebellion against the Lord many centuries ago, Ephraim's descendants were scattered among the Gentile nations, along with members of the other tribes, beginning with the fall of the northern kingdom of Israel c. 722 B.C. (2 Kgs. 17:5-6; see also Israel: Scattering of Israel and Israel: Lost Tribes of Israel)

“‘In the last days, Ephraim’s descendants have the privilege and responsibility to bear the message of the restoration of the gospel to the world and to gather scattered Israel (D&C 113:3-6).’ We believe in the literal gathering of Israel and in the restoration of the Ten Tribes; that Zion (the New Jerusalem) will be built upon the American continent’ (A of F 10; cf. Deut. 4:27-31; 28; 29; 30; 3 Ne. 20-21). The keys of gathering Israel were committed to the Prophet Joseph Smith by Moses on April 3, 1836, in the Kirtland Temple (D&C 110:11). Many of Ephraim’s descendants are being gathered first, for they have the responsibility of preparing the way for the gathering of the other tribes (D&C 113). ‘And they [others of the tribes of Israel] shall bring forth their rich treasures unto the children of Ephraim, my servants and there shall they fall down and be crowned with glory, even in Zion, by the hands of the servants of the Lord, even the children of Ephraim, and they shall be filled with songs of everlasting joy’ (D&C 133:30-33; see also Israel: Gathering of Israel).

“One of the tools to be used in the gathering is the Book of Mormon, also known among Latter-day Saints as the stick of Joseph or the stick of Ephraim (Ezek. 37:15-19; 2 Ne. 3:12; D&C 27:5). It is to play an important part in convincing Lamanites, Jews, and Gentiles that Jesus is the messiah and that God does remember his covenant people (See Book of Mormon: Title Page).

“For Latter-day Saints, identification of a person's lineage in latter-day Covenant Israel is made under the hands of inspired Patriarchs through patriarchal blessings that declare lineage. Elder John A. Widtsoe, an Apostle, declared, ‘In giving a blessing the patriarch may declare our lineage, that is, that we are of Israel, therefore of the family of Abraham, and of a specific tribe of Jacob. In the great majority of cases, Latter-day Saints are of the tribe of Ephraim, the tribe to which has been committed the leadership of the Latter-day work. Whether this lineage is of blood or adoption it does not matter.’ (p. 73; cf. Abr. 2:10).

“The patriarchal blessings of most Latter-day Saints indicate that they are literal, blood descendants of Abraham and of Israel. Those who are not literal descendants are adopted into the family of Abraham when they receive baptism and confirmation (see Law of Adoption). They are then entitled to all the rights and privileges of heirs (TPJS, pp. 149-50). This doctrine of adoption was understood by ancient prophets and apostles (e.g., Rom. 11; 1 Ne. 10:14; Jacob 5; cf. D&C 84:33-34).”

Lynne Cheney defends Romney against anti-Mormon criticism

Bill Sammon, The Examiner

WASHINGTON -

Second lady Lynne Cheney, a descendant of Mormons, is defending Republican presidential candidate Mitt Romney against what she calls “virulently anti-Mormon” criticism.

“I have been really astounded by the ferocity of some of the statements that people I would not expect to make have made about Mormonism,” Cheney told The Examiner in an interview.

She said Slate magazine published an article by Jacob Weisberg “that was just virulently anti-Mormon.” The December column branded Mormonism a “fraud” and ridiculed Romney for believing in the “whoppers” of church founder Joseph Smith, whom Weisberg called “an obvious con man.”

Cheney, who recounts her Mormon roots in a new book, “Blue Skies, No Fences,” said there is more religious criticism of Romney than there was of his father, the late Michigan Gov. George Romney, when he ran for president 40 years ago.

“It surprises me because it wasn't that way when his father ran,” she said. “So I think we need to kind of say take a deep breath here. This is a country where people have the right to worship freely.”

Cheney's paternal grandparents were Mormons, though her father, Wayne Vincent, rejected Mormonism and sent his daughter to a Presbyterian church that he and his wife never attended. Cheney later became a Methodist.

DU BUISSON BREWERY VERIFIES THAT "BUSH" IS THE ENGLISH TRANSLATION OF "DUBUISSON."

"In 1933, wishing to meet the growing competition of English beers, Alfred Dubuisson decided to brew a blend of the Belgian and English tastes. He named his fortunate creation Bush Beer, the English literal translation of the Dubuisson beer."

"Where did the name "Bush" come from? They originally chose the English name "Bush" as a translation of their own name (buisson, in French, is "bush") as part of their attempt to enter the British market in the 1930s."

RETURNING TO HILLARY'S ANCESTOR, JEAN GUYON, SIEUR DUBUISSON, WHICH MEANS "MR. BUSH"...

Jean Guyon \(1592 - 1663\) links to Zacharie Cloutier [translated text]

Zechariah, along with Jean Guyon, the future of Mr. Bush, embarked on March 14, 1634 at Mortagne by Robert Giffard to move faraway New France. ...

Jean Guyon is all religious festivals and popular. Thus, the Journal of the Jesuits taught us that when Corpus Christi in 1646, it works with another migrant percheron Zacharie Cloutier celebrated at the head of the procession, and that, on the occasion of the marriage of Jean Guyon du Buisson, the eldest son of the pioneer, with Elisabeth Couillard, "there were two violins to the wedding, which had not yet been seen in Canada."

Jean Guyon décède May 30, 1663; Mathurine Robin had preceded it in the grave a year earlier on April 17, 1662.

Over the centuries, their children and descendants have given birth to generations of Guyon, or become Guion Dion. Elles se sont installées au Québec, au Canada et aux Etats-Unis. They have settled in Quebec, Canada and the United States.

In 1730, in line Guyon 2150, which puts it thus at the forefront of French families of America.

238 years later, on March 30, 1968 Celine Dion was born.

RootsWeb: Guyon-L Archives

The website that lists the Jewish Guyons is: JewishGen.com / [sic] JewishGen.org

“The Guyon line suddenly appears around 1500. That is a time when many Merranos (Jewish families hiding their faith/identity by outwardly joining the Catholic church) flooded into France, mostly from Spain and Portugal. It is merely a possibility but 'Guyon is close to the Hebrew family name 'Dayan' which means 'Judge. 'Dayan' was changed to 'Dion' by Jewish families who fled to Russia centuries ago. This family line still exists today (descendants of the tribe of Dan).”

TRIBE OF DAN + TUATHA DE DANAAAN = MEROVINGIAN DYNASTY

“Through the work of Sir Laurence Gardener we discover that Sumaire in the old Irish language means Dragon. He writes: ‘It is also reckoned that the subsequent culture of the region, phonetically called Sumerian (pronounced ‘Shumerian’) was actually Sidhemurian (Shee-murian). This case is now considerable since the early Ring Lords of Scythia (the Tuatha De Danaan king tribe) were actually called the ‘Sumaire’.

“During the days of the Biblical Great Exodus, a group separated from Moses and went to the North. This group was the Tribe of Dann. Millions went and settled in the European and Scandinavian areas. From there they spread out to other parts of the world...conquering the countries, spreading their Anunnaki seed and replacing the conquered people’s traditions with their own serpent culture.” (“The Tribe of Dann and the Lost Tribe of Israel”)

Yes, Bush is a Jew, he has
Jews all through his family

For example, Levi Pierce and his mother Barbara Pierce
(Levi and Barbara are related) are both Jews.

Pierce is an Americanization of the Jewish name Perez/Peretz/Peres. The name is of Hebrew origin. According to Genesis 38, Pharez (the spelling Perez is also used (in the First Book of Chronicles)) was a son of Judah born to Tamar (who incidentally, was Judah's daughter in law (Judah, the father of the Jews, ...)).

Doesn't that make BUSH's mother his cousin?

In the 2004 US election you got to choose between the Jew Kerry and the Jew Bush.

Some choice,... like the choice between the front side of a piece of paper, or the back side.

So the result of the election has already been decided before you get to "choose".

I would rather have the Iranian type of election.

INTRODUCTION

RICHARD BRUCE CHENEY

Lynne Cheney: 'Dick and Barack Obama are eighth cousins.'

Lynne Cheney: 'Dick and Barack Obama are eighth cousins.' In an MSNBC interview today, host Norah O'Donnell asked Lynne Cheney her views on Sen. Hillary Clinton's (D-NY) presidential campaign and whether "America is ready for a woman president." Cheney replied that she actually has a "certain bias":

One of the things I discovered was that Dick and Barack Obama are eighth cousins. Is that an amazing thing? If you go back eight generations, we have a common ancestor.

When asked if that means she's "for Barack Obama," Cheney replied, "No."

UPDATE: A spokeswoman Lynne Cheney explained to the AP that Obama "is a descendent of Maren Duvall. This French Huguenot's son married the granddaughter of a Richard Cheney, who arrived in Maryland in the late 1650's from England, said Ginny Justice, a spokeswoman for Lynne Cheney."

The Obama campaign's response? "Every family has a black sheep."

WHY NOT INFORM HER READERS THAT DICK IS ALSO RELATED TO GEORGE BUSH??

LYNNE CHENEY'S MORMON / MASONIC BACKGROUND:

"One of my father's great-grandmothers, Katurah Vaughn, was a servant girl in South Wales when she encountered a Mormon missionary in 1848 at a meeting near her home. It had been only a year since Brigham Young had led the first company of Mormons to the valley of the Great Salt Lake, but missionaries were already abroad, and the effort in Wales, led by the charismatic Dan Jones, was an astonishing success. Katurah and a young man named William, whom she met at the meeting and married shortly thereafter, were among thousands baptized in the new faith. They were also part of the first group to emigrate to what Mormons called the New Zion, and although it is unlikely that either had ever been more than ten or twenty miles from home, the two of them traveled...to Liverpool, where they boarded a sailing ship, the Buena Vista, to cross the Atlantic...

"...my grandfather...Leon Edwin, or Lyn...won the heart of the daughter of Swedish and Danish immigrants deeply committed to the Mormon church, and they may have tried to increase Lyn's commitment, but if so, they merely irritated him...

"One connection he did keep was with his Masonic lodge. Faithful about attending meetings, he was extremely proud when he became a 32nd-degree Mason, an attainment that would only have deepened his estrangement from the church. Its hierarchy was irritated by Masonic claims that Mormons had purloined some of their rituals and suspicious that the Masons were trying to be a church themselves. Whether these disputes meant anything to my grandfather isn't clear, but he did cast his lot with the Masons and quit going to church entirely. Anna became an enthusiastic member of Eastern Star, the Masonic women's organization, but she didn't let that stand in the way of her religion. She simply ignored whatever arguments the Masons and Mormons were having and kept going to church on Sunday...

"My father had joined the Casper Lodge of the Masons, which meant that I, like a lot of my friends, was eligible for membership in Job's Daughters, an organization for girls from fifth grade through high school. I was very impressed with the idea of becoming Honored Queen, the highest position in Job's Daughters and an office that involved a crown, a long velvet cape, and getting to run the meetings...

"...Many years later when I joined the Methodist church, everyone was fine with that. And when my brother Mark fell in love with a Jewish woman and decided to convert, it caused hardly a stir." (Lynne Cheney, Blue Skies, No Fences: A Memoir of Childhood and Family, pp. 101-2, 108, 110, 111-12, 96-7, 114)

Lynne Cheney defends Romney against anti-Mormon criticism

Bill Sammon, The Examiner
2007-10-09

WASHINGTON -

Second lady Lynne Cheney, a descendant of Mormons, is defending Republican presidential candidate Mitt Romney against what she calls "virulently anti-Mormon" criticism.

"I have been really astounded by the ferocity of some of the statements that people I would not expect to make have made about Mormonism," Cheney told The Examiner in an interview.

She said Slate magazine published an article by Jacob Weisberg "that was just virulently anti-Mormon." The December column branded Mormonism a "fraud" and ridiculed Romney for believing in the "whoppers" of church founder Joseph Smith, whom Weisberg called "an obvious con man."

Cheney, who recounts her Mormon roots in a new book, "Blue Skies, No Fences," said there is more religious criticism of Romney than there was of his father, the late Michigan Gov. George Romney, when he ran for president 40 years ago.

“It surprises me because it wasn't that way when his father ran,” she said. “So I think we need to kind of say take a deep breath here. This is a country where people have the right to worship freely.”

Cheney's paternal grandparents were Mormons, though her father, Wayne Vincent, rejected Mormonism and sent his daughter to a Presbyterian church that he and his wife never attended. Cheney later became a Methodist.
